Some important words to get you by

1. Ada:

Is there...? Do you have...? There is... I have.... Use this word to request things. Just stick the name of what you're after onto it.

"Ada kamar?" "Do you have a room?" "Ada." "I do."

2. Bisa:

Is it possible...? Can you...? Can I...? It's possible.... I can.... You can...Use this when you want to do something, or find out whether someone can do something for you.

"Bisa ke Ubud?" "Can you [go] to Ubud?"

3. Ya:

Yes. Yeah? Also used as an interrogative on the end of questions, like the London "innit?" or "yeah?" or West Coast "y'know?"

4. Tidak:

No. Not. There are two negatives in Indonesian, but this one is always understood. You can use it to mean "no" or a "not". "Tidak bisa." "It's not possible." "Habis?" "Have you finished?"

5. Habis:

Finished. There is no more. Have you finished?

6. Makan:

Food. Eat. Meal. One of the nice things about learning Indonesian is that many words can be used both as nouns and verbs. "Ada makan?" "Do you have food?" Just add times of day to make meals: "Makan pagi" (breakfast) "Makan siang" (lunch) "Makan malam" (dinner).

7. Selamat:

Safe. Add the times of day to make formal greetings: "Selamat pagi": "Good morning." "Selamat siang": "Good day." "Selamat malam": "Good evening". "Selamat jalan": "Safe journey!" (Goodbye).

8. Pagi:

Morning. Morning! In the morning. As in "Selamat pagi" (good morning), "makan pagi" (breakfast). "Pagi." "In the morning."

9. Siang:

Midday, in the middle of the day. "Selamat siang" (good day). "Makan siang" (lunch).

10. Malam:

Evening, night, in the evening. "Selamat malam": good evening. "Makan malam": dinner.

11. Orang:

Person. People. "Ada kamar?" "Ada. Berapa orang?" "Do you have a room?" "I do. For how many people?"

12. Berapa:

How many...? How much...? What number... At the market: "Berapa?" "How much?" Most Indonesians will write the price down for you on paper or a calculator, or hold up fingers or notes. "Jam berapa?" "What time....?"

13. Jam:

Hour. Time. "Jam berapa?" "What time is it?" "Berapa jam ke Ubud?" "How many hours to Tamboluka Airport?"

14. Dari:

From. "Dari mana?" "Where are you from?"

15. Ke:

To. "Ke mana?" "Where are you [going] to?"

16. Di Mana:

Where. "Di mana kamar kecil?" "Where is the toilet?" "Ke mana?" "Where are you [going] to?" "Ke Kerewe." "I am going to Kerewe."

17. Sudah:

Already. Finished. Have you yet? In a restaurant: "Sudah?" "Have you finished?" "Sudah." "I have."

Welcome to Alamayah
a note from the creators

We are honored that you have chosen to stay with us and whole heartedly look forward to hosting your unique Alamayah and Sumba experience.

Our Story

Dan and Jess moved to Sumba in 2017 when fell in love with the island and more importantly the Sumbanese people. Their vision for Alamayah was to create a socially conscience gateway for tourists to come and explore the raw and rugged traditional beauty of Sumba whilst having a locally built and operated luxury oasis. Both beautiful contrasts, both proudly created by the Sumbanese people. A vision they are equally as proud to have introduced. Jess being the architect and Dan as the builder/project manager, they decided to train the local people over hundreds of hours in high end modern construction, something new and never seen by the local people before. The Sumbanese work ethic and willingness to learn has enabled them to produced a high end architectural building built to a world standard. Many of the people who made up our construction team have now morphed into the hospitality/ operations team currently working at Alamayah. The end goal was to construct a hotel that focuses purely on local education, supporting both life and career-based skills for the local people, this could not have happened to a more deserving island. Their goal to stimulate local education and a social circular economy driven by our staff training and construction program.

The result, not only short-term acute gains typical to any major development but mainly sustained long term gains focusing on future employment (both with Alamayah and abroad), local infrastructure and a sustained increase in the local economy. Statistically, for every person employed in Lamboya, their wages alone will feed 15 or more people. Alamayah employed over 120 during the construction, of the 120 originally employed during construction, over 60 are either still working for Alamayah (diversified into hospitality/operations), our farm or have continued work as a direct result of the skills obtained throughout their time with us. Essentially, we did not want to import a skill set/ trade and then have the profits leave again. We believe sustainability starts with the people.

We encourage you to get out and immerse yourself in the Sumbanese culture during your stay. Our heartfelt hospitality is designed for a personal holiday experience, freeing you from the mental load of planning and scheduling.

Enjoy a variety of experiences made to suit your perfect getaway. From adventure to relaxation, surfing, spa treatments, cultural immersion (Village tour highly recommended), hot/cold hydrotherapy, hiking, mountain biking, and more.

Should any needs or desires arise, our dedicated service team are here to curate your personal Alamayah experience.

With gratitude. Dan & Jess

surf guide

Kerewe: westerly winds. Mainly works in the wet season

Kerewe right - mid tide (1-2.5m tide) 3-8ft,

Kerewe Right is a very long 800m right hand wave suitable for Intermediate to advanced surfers depending on swell. A step-up board or long board is preferable. The Paddle out can either be done from Tarakaha beach or along the cliff near the headland. Its a very fun point break that works best with the wet season winds or early morning dry season before the trade winds pick up.

Kerewe A-frame - Mid tide (1-2.5m tide) 2-4ft

Lips peak is a fun beginners to intermediate wave directly out the front of Alamayah. It breaks both left and right and is fun on a smaller swell. A bigger swell will work but it will cause it to have a strong current and a lot of paddling. Fun on a long board or mid size board.

Marossi: Easterly winds. Mainly works in the dry season

Cocos - low to mid tide (0.0-1m tide) 3-8ft

Cocos is a fun left hand beach break that can be enjoyed by both intermediate to advanced surfers. It works best on a very low tide to mid tide. As the tide fills in the cross current will get quite strong. Fun for intermediate surfers on a small swell but can get quite heavy on a bigger swell.

Launching pads - mid tide (1.2-2.5m tide) 3-8ft

Launching pads is a fast a barrely reef break suitable mainly for advanced surfers. Not advised for beginners.

Sunsets - Mid tide (1.2-2.5m tide) 3-10ft

Sunsets is a deep water slab that attracts a lot of swell. It will hold any size swell that hits it. A right hand wave that is suitable only for advanced surfers, especially on a bigger swell. A step up or Gun is needed to surf this wave.

Beachy - Low -mid (0.0-1m tide) 2-6 ft

The beachy is a beginners wave with a sand bottom. Its perfect for people to learn how to stand up for the first time and in a beautiful environment. It safest on a low tide and closer to the dasang side of the beach

Pinnacles: Easterly winds. Mainly works in the dry season.

Pinnacles - mid tide (1.0-2.5m tide) 3-8ft

Pinnacles is an intermediate to advanced right hand wave. On a bigger swell it will barrel and would only be advised to surf for more advanced surfers. There can typically be a wave on the inside section for the less brave.

The hole : Easterly winds

The hole - mid tide (1.0-2.5m tide) 2-4ft

The hole is an advanced A frame wave. When most waves are too small to surf, the hole will still produce over head barrels. Not advised for people who aren't fully capable surfers.

Rua

Rua Right - Westerly winds

Rua Right (Ombak Gila, Crazy wave) (1.2-2.5m tide)

Ombak Gila is a wet season wave that gets very protected from the wet season winds. Its an advanced wave and not advised for beginner surfers. On a bigger swell during the wetseason, it produces a very long right hand barrel for people wanting brave it out.

Watu bella - easterly winds

Watu bella - Mid tide (1m - 2.5m tide)

Watu bella is set on an incredibly beautiful white sand beach and is an incredible beautiful spot to learn how to surf. The bay produces a very mellow left hand wave and is perfect for a beginner wanting to get more time on the board.

Take a bike and explore the local area as you please. We suggest heading north from Alamayah which will keep the journey relatively flat and explore the beautiful mangrove forest, local villages and the famous Lamboyan Rice patty platau.

Kerewe beach walk

This 4.8km walk to the end of Kerewe beach (left of Alamayah) is a great way to start your day. Walking on a low to medium will create the grounds for a beautiful walk where you will be greeted by ancient trees growing out of the rocky point, exposed rock pools, waterfalls, beautiful river deltas and also the local's foraging for seaweed and urchins.

Don't forget your insect repellent in case of sand flies and some drinking water. Please be aware that there is a river mouth at the half way point. High tide and rain will make this too deep to pass. time: any time of the day, although sunrise and sunset is the most picturesque and less hot. Dawn and dusk although have the most sand flies.

The blow hole

On very large swell at high tide, catch the impressive blow hole as the water plummets through the rock cliffs.

On the smaller swell, it is a beautiful spot for your own private beach hangs where you will unlikely see another sole.

Explore Sumba

Kerewe beach

Directly out the front of Alamayah is kerewe beach, a long beach that is perfect to relax, swim, paddle board and watch the local life of sumba pass you by. You may see a dugon playing in the waves, turtles swimming past or even making their way up the beach to lay their eggs at breeding season. The Shepard will usually walk their heard of buffalo down the beach every morning and afternoon between 8-9am and 4-5pm. It is also very common to see the local kids training their horses or taking them for a bath.

Watubella beach

The famous watubella beach is the one not to skip. The white sandstone cliffs, secret cave and picturesque white sand beach with turquoise where you will most likely only be joined by your thoughts. The scenic walk down through the local viliage really sets the scene. To see this beach in all its beauty, its best to go on low to medium tide. Make sure you check out the cave on the far end of the beach Getting there: scooter, mountain bike, walk or car - 2km. Please ask the staff for a pin drop location. The village will ask for a small donation of 10k for parking on their land.

Tarakaha beach

If you want to relax at a beautiful private beach, Pantai Tarakaha is great value and close to Almayaha. By turning right out of Alamayaha a short 200m stroll will find your self in paradise. Walk to the end of Kerewe beach, cross over the head land to either see the views over Pantai Tarakaha or keep walking to the point to get close and personal with the Kerewe surf break. To enjoy this beach for yourself, cross over the headland to discover a beautiful and typically private white sand beach and turquoise water. This is normally more protected than kerewe and is the perfect swimming spot.

Marossi beach

A postcard perfect white sand beach and turquoise water. Walk up the beach to the island where you will find a perfect swimming spot, roll out your towel and take in the beauty of your surroundings. Watch the fishermen walk the reef on a low tide and keep an eye out of a turtle passing by. It is worth taking a snorkle and go underwater exploring but beware sometimes the current can be quite strong, stay in the shallow waters around the island
